Honoring 250 Years of Freedom and Service

Our nation's history has been shaped by generations of men and women who have answered the call to serve. For 250 years, members of our military have helped protect the freedoms and opportunities that make our country what it is today. Their courage, sacrifice, and dedication have played an important role in preserving the values upon which America was founded.

This milestone is not only a celebration of our nation's history, but also an opportunity to recognize and thank those who have served and continue to serve. As we gather with family, friends, and neighbors this Independence Day, we honor the veterans, active-duty military members, and military families whose commitment has helped strengthen our communities and our country for generations.

As America celebrates its 250th anniversary, I reflect on the values of service, opportunity, and community that make me proud to be an American. My time in the U.S. Navy helped shape those values, which I continue to carry into my work every day.

For the past 27 years, I've been with Baldwin LightStream, where I serve as the Outside Plant Projects Manager. I've had the opportunity to help lead major technology upgrades from fiber expansion to the evolution of our video services to ensure we continue delivering reliable, high-quality service to our customers.

Outside of work, I enjoy spending time with my family at our camper, where we make the most of weekends riding UTVs, playing cards, and relaxing around the campfire.

Celebrating Independence

This Fourth of July, communities across the country will come together to celebrate the freedoms, traditions, and spirit that make America unique. As we gather with family and friends for parades, fireworks, cookouts, and community events, we also take time to reflect on the history and values that have shaped our nation.

This year is especially meaningful as America begins celebrating its 250th anniversary. For two and a half centuries, generations of Americans have worked to build strong communities, pursue opportunity, and create lasting connections. As we celebrate Independence Day, we honor the past, appreciate the present, and look forward to the future. From all of us at Baldwin LightStream, we wish you a safe, happy, and memorable Fourth of July!
